What do I do if I can't post bandit signs in my area?

Clever Investor does not condone breaking the law ever. If posting them may not be legal in your area, you can still probably get away with it if you post them on Friday evenings and take them back down on Sunday evenings. The sign police typically don't work on the weekends, and if you use a Google Voice number or pre-paid phone exclusively for the signs, it makes it difficult to track you down to fine you. Bandit signs are one technique that is a small part of your potential marketing arsenal. There are other marketing techniques that have higher success rates. If you haven't checked out all of the methods available in Module 2 in the CustomerHub; watch that first before anything else. Your mentor will help you focus on the marketing techniques that will achieve even better results than bandit signs.
